Big Little Footprints

About the series

Families love to travel, but it often seems like a daunting task. That's why they will love Big Little Footprints, which takes the hard work out of it.

Through big experiences and heart warming moments, the show will inspire families not only to travel and take adventures – but teach them how to do it better.

Through showcasing the best places to go, sustainable places to stay, ways to get around, what products to use and of course what to experience while there that'll leave a positive lasting impression on our children in the hope of building a better future.
